use library "kx-node-server" from npm I am trying to use a library to link two apps together, But I have trouble to get its npm package to work. To start with,

---

I want to learn some coding skills and use `kx-node-server` from npm. When I ran the following command, npm start: Using visual studio code (which is my development environment) run commands to type `npm install --global @kx-node/server --save` to add the path of `@kx-node/server` to `.npmrc` file to restart the webpack dev server to run `npm start` Following is the error displayed: This error did not return an error when I chose to add the lib to project settings. But somehow I am still confused with this issue. Could anyone help me out with this error? A: Thanks @krisna for your time and sharing your knowledge. Here is the answer to my problem, Which is actually I haven't installed library properly. And the right way to install it is: Run `sudo npm install -g @kx-node/server` Run `sudo npm install --save @kx-node/server` Open `.vscode/launch.json` file. Locate the Target field (or the line with the command type) and add `@kx-node/server` The exported command line for me is: `"type": "node", "request": "launch", "program": "${workspaceFolder}/node_modules/.bin/kx-node-server", "cwd": "${workspaceFolder}", "debug": true, 3e33713323`
